

I like to sleep on flights and that would not be possible if the person next to me could use his cell phone. If cell phone use is so necessary why not the airlines install a soundproof area similar to another toilet for use as a cell phone booth.